Background to Healing Hearts Transforming Nations.

In the weeks following the end of the genocide in Rwanda in 1994, while there were still unburied bodies lying on the ground, Dr Rhiannon Lloyd, a British Christian Psychiatrist was asked to travel there to help establish a counselling programme to start the process of reconciliation. What she found, in this deeply Christian country, was totally overwhelming. Not just a nation destroyed, but a church discredited and implicated in what had happened, with its leaders bitter, confused, angry and in despair. In a land of eight million people, up to one million had been killed in the most terrible way by their neighbours in towns, villages and churches.

It was clear that, above all else, the church needed healing. The church should have been the expression of God's love, grace, peace, and refuge, but for many, it had been a place of killing. As Rhiannon tried to speak to gatherings of Christians, she was faced with an explosion of pain, anger, recrimination and rage. Nothing in her training as a psychiatrist had prepared her for this. So, in the midst of this outpouring of grief and anger, she prayed. God began to show her that people in such pain cannot begin to forgive until they have had their pain dealt with. She saw that the cross of Jesus was not just a place to find forgiveness for sin, but also a place where people could bring all their grief, pain, and sorrows. She saw that in Isaiah 53, before sin and iniquity is mentioned, scripture talks about Jesus bearing our griefs, carrying our sorrows and paying the price for our healing.

And so began the development of a three day workshop based firmly on the truths and principles established in the Bible. In the most astonishing and outrageous ways men and women who had suffered abuse or were abusers were reconciled. The destroyed nation of Rwanda took notice. The workshop, originally called Healing Wounds of Ethnic Conflict, was used throughout the nation, and spread to neighbouring countries and beyond. In the years that followed, it has changed the lives of millions around the world.

This workshop was born in Africa. It has been developed in Africa in the wake of multiple violent conflicts. It has proved the power of God's truth to change lives, stop wars and reconcile different groups within nations. This is an opportunity to let God's truth, distilled through the pain of Rwanda, speak into other conflicts and broken hearts.

Principal Speakers/ Workshop and Course facilitators

Dr. Rhiannon Lloyd (Healing the Nations UK) The original creator of the workshop while working in association with Le Rucher. She has introduced it in many countries throughout the world. Copyrighted translations (held by Le Rucher on behalf of HHTN) exist in English, French, German, Spanish, Russian, Arabic and Welsh. Many more translations have been made from these into local and tribal languages. She is supporting the growing ministry of HHTN workshop through HHTN Global

Rev. Joseph Nyamutera is a Rwandan pastor who lived through the pain of the genocide. He became Le Rucher Ministries director for Rwanda and East Africa. After 2016 Le Rucher stepped back as an NGO and Joseph continued as director of the Rwandan NGO, Rabagirana Ministries based near Kigali, with full support of Le Rucher. He has worked for many years with Rhiannon and now spends much of his time training others to lead workshops throughout Africa. But has also been used on other continents. He has been and still is supported by Le Rucher, through Mercy Ministries International. He is key to the development of HHTN Global. He is a member of WEA Peace and Reconciliation Network

Rev. George de Vuyst is an American pastor with Resonate Global Mission. He has been serving in Ukraine for over 20 years. After Russia first invaded Ukraine in 2014, he began to run the HHTN workshop across the front line between Ukraine and Russia. ## Supporting Organisations

Le Rucher Ministries first got involved with the ministry of reconciliation in Rwanda in 2001 and opened a regional office in Kigali in 2006 run by Joseph Nyamutera to serve the many teams working around the region in reconciliation. The goal was always to see the team in Kigali operate as a separate entity. In 2016 Le Rucher were pleased to release them to open a new ministry called “Rabagirana Ministries” doing even more in the region and expanding beyond Africa. From an initial European NGO in Rwanda this gave the freedom to develop an African based international reconciliation network. Joseph Nyamutera still represents Le Rucher Ministries as the International Reconciliation Consultant, now based in Kenya. Le Rucher continues to work with Rabagirana and others in the region as a partnering organization. Le Rucher staff regularly travel to East Africa’s reconciliation projects to support, train in biblical worldview and provide member care / trauma care.

Rabagirana Ministries has grown into an independent Rwandan ministry since being established by Le Rucher. It is influential throughout Rwanda and increasing numbers of countries throughout Africa. It has its own modern training premises near Kigali from which many training programmes are run, including the International School of Reconciliation that is attended by participants from all over the world. In Rwanda it contributes to the country’s ongoing national programme of reconciliation. It works throughout the country, including prisons, schools, universities as well as churches. Joseph has been able to increasingly pass on the local work of Rabagirana so that he may spend more time encouraging the development of HHTN internationally.

Healing the Nations In 2012 an informal organisation called Healing the Nations was established in the UK to specifically support and cover the expanding ministry of Dr Rhiannon Lloyd. Through Healing the Nations, the translation of the workshop has been commissioned into many other languages. Rhiannon has been supported to pioneer the use of the workshop in many non-African nations and help establish International Schools of Reconciliation where future leaders of reconciliation can be trained.

HHTN Global As the work of HHTN grew globally, many who had no relationship with either Le Rucher or Healing the Nations, began to use and teach the workshop. It became clear that a Network needed to be established that was international, non-denominational and reflecting the principles of reconciliation learned at great cost over the years, especially the “Bible First” principle. The Network is to be a place of genuine networking and encouragement where resources can be held, information disseminated, and standards of material and teaching maintained. In January 2022 HHTN Global was formally accepted as a ministry of and became accountable to “The Forerunner Charitable Trust”, a Trust registered with the Charity Commission of England and Wales.

Resonate Global Mission is the mission agency of the Christian Reformed Church in North America. Based in Grand Rapids, Michigan, USA, Resonate Global Mission supports George and has released him to spend a large part of his time developing HHTN and using its material and approach. It has supported George in developing workshops and training courses in the US as well as Europe.
